know that they cannot buy voters so easily as they can members of Congress. These latter are few in number. Manufacturing stock, and ninety thousand dollar loans thrust into the breeches pockets of ambitious and unprincipled men will serve as a retaining fee. But the people are a host; and any attempt to bribe any (except whigs, who think with Webster that popular government should be founded on men's interest, and not on their rights) would be repelled with scorn. The only resource, then, is to overawe them at the polls—to limit and control the dependent and timid by the influence of property.

Many voters throw the whig ticket every year from fear of being ruined in their business and credit, if they vote for those whom they prefer. Many pretend not to care who is chosen to office, and stay at home, when they wish to vote for democrats, but dare not. We have heard of some voters taking a whig ticket to some place where they could not be detected, erasing all the names of whigs, and interchanging the names of democrats. Would it not be well for all democrats who are dependent on whigs and who fear to be made penniless if they exercise their rights, to adopt this plan?

This year the honest portion of the people will doubtless vote against Webster and his partisans, on account of their offering the property taken from their pockets, under pretence of its being required by the wants of the government, for such agrarian distribution as will interest a majority of the voters in sustaining him. It is probable that Webster is in favor of establishing this system permanently. Indeed, if he adheres to the unprincipled sentiments which he uttered in the Mass. Convention, it is certain. For he thought it "to be the part of political wisdom," not only "to found government on property," for the purpose of enabling "the influence of property to limit and control the power of the people," but also "to establish such DISTRIBUTION OF PROPERTY," as would interest the great majority of society in the protection of the government's measures for enriching the few and beggaring the many.

The aristocracy and their dependants will vote for such measures as approve of an AGRARIAN DISTRIBUTION OF PROPERTY, and a continuance of BURDEN-SOME TAXES to create a fund for such distribution. This mode of interesting a majority in the support of Daniel Webster, we are confident, cannot be approved by the honest portion of our citizens. How important, then, that they should, this year in particular, be protected in their right of voting, without being controlled by the influence of property!

The subject ought to be taken into serious consideration. For the vote taken this year should decide how many are really unfavorable to laws made for protecting private property from being plundered by the National Government, whose wants require no more burdensome taxes—how many look upon the private property of the people as prey and plunder for agrarian distribution. For the honor of our city, we should wish to see a large vote against the agrarians, but if we do not protect the vital principle which is intended to be established by the vote by ballot, the real sentiments of the voters will not be declared at the polls.

The papers yesterday brought us no news of importance. Gen. Gaines has arrived at New Orleans, the schr. Flava, which left Velasco on the 27th ult., furnishes nothing from Texas. They have had frost in Louisiana.

Report says that the Senator of this parish has resigned, and that Messrs F. D. Conrad and W. B. Scott, are candidates to fill the vacancy.

Hydrophobia.—We are informed by a respectable planter of Pointe Coupee, who has recently lost a negro by hydrophobia, that Mr. Valerian Ledoux, of the same parish, has lost two of his slaves attacked by this horrible disease, one of whom is dead and the other is undergoing medical treatment.

Ben Hamed Ben Maraischal, the "magician" who attempted a similar trick here some time ago, made a sad faux pas at New York, in endeavoring to produce "the apparition of any person dead or alive." He got through his preliminary tricks with cards, fiddles, rings and oranges, and then began to burn blue lights and prepare for the grand denouement, when the audience began to shout and roar and stamp, and perform all manner of antics, and as the Express says "instead of raising the dead he raised the devil." The audience sprang upon the stage, made quick work of his paraphernalia, and drove the Magician forth into the garden, in pursu naturabilis like father Adam.

It is supposed that nine lives were lost, the whole crew, by the wreck of the Charlotte, on the Delaware. The boxes, in addition to other goods, have been obtained from her; the boxes are marked "Maynard & Noyes, Boston"—two of them contain white wax—the other syringes.

The New York papers are eternally talking about their immense circulation—their new presses—double-Napier's, &c.—but it is all nothing to what we do in Boston; we have a new press building—invented by Dr. Grenville—that will print a million of copies a minute, and shall be obliged to run that night and day, constantly, to supply our subscribers. We can't stop to calculate their number.

The William Gibbons.—The engineer of the William Gibbons, which was lost a short time since on her passage from New York to Charleston, gives an account of the disaster from which it would appear that it was not caused by the violence of the gale—but by a mistake in the supposed position of the packet.

The City Guards, Capt. Macomber, looked elegantly yesterday. After having been reviewed by the Commander-in-Chief, upon the Common, they partook, with a large party of invited guests, of an excellent dinner at Concert Hall.

The people in England are building new towns, and speculating in real estate, as well as Uncle Sam, and complaining much about the want of brick-layers, joiners, &c.

The New York Transcript blows up the Intelligence Officers in that city—there are but few of them, any where, better than ourselves.

Quick Work.—Notwithstanding the office of the Herald was burnt down on Monday morning, the paper was issued as usual the next day!

A duel recently took place in France, between two brothers, occasioned by their rivalry in their profession of Surgery. One of them was killed.

The Baltimore papers stick to it that they have a ghost there of a lady which appears every night behind the Methodist meeting house.

EXPRESS MAIL.

This mail will commence running on the 15th of November next.

Between New York and Philadelphia, there will be two mails daily upon the railroads, running with the speed of the express, and carrying the entire mail matter, in consequence of which, the additional postage will not be charged between these cities. The same policy will be pursued between Philadelphia and Baltimore, and further south, as soon as the Department, by the aid of the railroads or other means, can give the whole mail the same expedition as the express.

The Department will endeavor to make such arrangements as will give the towns on the upper line through New Jersey, the same mail facilities they now enjoy, and expects shortly to improve them.

Amended are the regulations formed by the Post Master General in reference to the matter to be conveyed by this mail.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT,

October 22, 1836.

Regulations for the Express Mail.

1. No letters will be sent by this mail, except such as have been written upon the words "Express Mail."

2. No free letters, nor letters containing money, nor letters exceeding half an ounce in weight, except public despatches, nor any newspapers or pamphlets, will be sent by this mail.

3. If letters bearing a frank, or containing money, or weighing more than half an ounce, be put into post offices marked "Express Mail," the postmasters will erase those words, and send them by the ordinary mail.

4. All letters and public despatches sent by this mail will be charged with triple the usual rates of postage.

5. Letters marked "Express Mail," and put into post offices not on the line of the express, will be sent by that line when they reach it, and will be charged, where put in, with triple postage for the whole distance.

6. Editors of newspapers have a right to receive free by this mail, slips from all newspapers which they may now receive free by the ordinary mail, but cannot receive the slips and the newspapers both. If both come to them, the postmasters will charge the newspapers with postage.

7. Slips from newspapers, and small parts of newspapers cut out, or strips specially printed by newspaper publishers, to convey the latest news foreign and domestic, may be sent by this mail, but no case may exceed in size two columns of such newspaper.

8. Newspaper slips must show on their face from what newspapers they come, and be put into the post office open, with the name of the editor or newspaper for whom designed, distinctly written upon them.

9. Postmasters will put all slips for the same place into a packet directed to that place.

Look out for Lies and Humbug.—We are on the eve of the most important election. The whigs are becoming desperate. Their presses are nearly reckless. Now the movement for any device they can invent—any misrepresentation they can raise—any humbug they can get up to deceive the people. We caution the public against such tricks. The times are rife with "inventions of cunning and effrontery."—Richmond Equivocal.

Arkansas.—This state is democratic to the back-bone. A resolution has already been introduced into its Legislature instructing its United States Senators to vote for the Expunging Resolutions, and a ticket nominated of Electors pledged to the support of Messrs Van Buren and Johnson, which will be elected by a large majority.

The crazy speculations which Nick Biddle set agoing three years ago by his extravagant expansion in loans, are beginning to come home to roost. Several large failures have taken place in New York—some on Saturday last, and others on Monday—a few more would be healthy for the money market. Nobody talks of failing here—a few may snap, possibly—but not enough to scare folks.

It is up-hill work for the whigs to attempt to make the merchants believe that an administration which has done more to protect their interests, and secure to them trading privileges, than any other one since the organization of the government, is inimical to them. You had better quit that track, Major—it is a wrong scent.

The only sensible remark we have seen in the Atlas for a long while, it made yesterday morning, viz.—"Let us be wise by the example of our opponents"—amen—let the whigs listen to the truth once—adopt the advice of the Atlas and follow the example of the democrats.

The Journal of Commerce thinks that money will soon be all right again, and acknowledges the wish of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury to do all in their power to relieve the pressure.

The Atlas fibs tremendously about us and things in general; but then it would be as impossible for it to exist without a falsehood in its mouth as for a calf without a cud.

Noah don't like the late returns from Pennsylvania, and gives the whigs there a hint to send such as will suit the New York whig market better, during the next Election in the Empire state!

"The whig,"  who to purify the political atmosphere, infected by corrupt and noxious exhalations for nearly eight years past," says the Evening Journal—they had better move out of it then.

The whiggies begin to shake in their shoes, in Tennessee—the last Nashville Banner trembled like an Aspen leaf.

Ohio Election—Good News!—A letter to the editor of the Argus, from the Republican Central Committee, dated at Columbus on the night of the 16th inst., contains the following gratifying intelligence:—"We have the satisfaction to say to you to-night, that we have a clear majority of four in each branch of our legislature."

Another letter exclaims—"Alas, for poor Solitude! We enter the great contest with renewed energies; and will give a good account of this State in November."—Albany Argus.

South Carolina.—According to a letter in the New York Daily Advertiser, Wm. K. Clowney, (whig) is elected to Congress in the 5th district by a majority of 274 over James Rogers, (Van Buren) the present incumbent.

Heart-rending Brutality.—What can we think of human nature after reading the following police article, which we copy from the New York Express!—"On Saturday evening a female named Phillips applied for advice to the police office, under the following circumstances:—She stated that on Friday her husband, Ephraim Phillips, left his residence, No. 41 Clarkson street, and proceeded with her and her children to the Philadelphia steam boat, stating that he was going to take them to Philadelphia. But just as the boat was on the point of starting, he threw a letter into her lap and sprang ashore. The letter stated that he was about to leave her forever, and that he was going to New Orleans, and concluded with the following kind advice:—'You may go now to your infernal priest and make your confession.' The officers were directed to look after him."

Colleges.—The number of young men graduated this year in the colleges north of Pennsylvania, is 578. The total number graduated last year, at the same institutions, was 439. The largest graduating class was at Yale, numbering 81. The next at Union, numbering 71.—New Bedford Mercury.

Police Court.—The officers did not get a single nibble yesterday, and they whiled away the day in a warfare of conundrums with the Reporters. Our modesty forbids our telling you how pronounced the best which was as follows:—

"Why is a conundrum a demonstrator of Lacon? Because he proves the truth of Lacon's apothegm: 'The greatest fool may ask a question, that the wisest man cannot answer.'"

A tobacco-eating constable propounded—"Why is an exhausted quid like a veteran? Because it is an old soldier."

A "Constant Reader" writes us, that our recent essay upon the term "Loner" gave him "heartfelt satisfaction," and adds that he hopes some of our "learned correspondents will throw some light upon the terms sizzle and sizzification." As we understand the matter, "sizzification" is the process of becoming sizzled, and "sizzled" is—"drunk in the third degree," i. e. able to talk, but not to walk.

"Domning with faint praise."—This often-quoted remark of Pope's was most amusingly and literally illustrated in a music store in this city a short time ago. Castillo is a perfect master of the guitar, and particularly choice in the selection of his instrument. Being in want of a new one, he invited his friend Mont to accompany him to the music store, where he called for samples. The courteous vender accordingly handed down some half dozen elegant guitars, and at the same time poured forth a rapid current of counter eloquence upon their unvaried merits. One in particular—which Castillo had begun to strum on—came in for a share of the vender's lavish panegyrics:—"It was superb!" "Monsieur D," recently from France, had said it was equal to the first in Europe!" "Senior G," from Italy, had pronounced it to be superior to any instrument he had ever played!" "Senior M," from Cuba, had declared its tone to be exquisite, &c. &c. Castillo listened with due gravity to the barrage in honor of the guitar, whose melodious capabilities he was at the same time testing through the whole musical scale. At length the vender stopped to take breath for a second blast upon the perfect tones of the "finest, most superior, and exquisite instrument." Taking advantage of the halt, Castillo gave a flourish on the guitar, and turning round to his friend remarked with inimitable sang froid:—"It isn't so bad—bad after all—is it Mont?"

Bassiana—genuine.—As our friend Bass was standing at the corner of Tudor's buildings, a lady brushed by him, and the corner of her flowing veil caught in his bright eagle button: and before she could disengage herself he remarked with his usual gracious smile:—"I presume, Madam, that you did not think of hooking a Bass on dry land."

Important from Spain.—Messrs Topliff have received a letter from New York stating that intelligence has been received by the arrival of the Ship Empress from Malaga, that on the 25th ult., a battle was fought between the Queen's army under General Alaix, and the Carlists under Gomez, 14,000 strong, which resulted in the complete defeat of the latter, who had several hundred killed, and 3000 taken prisoners. The place where the battle was fought is not given. Great rejoicings took place at Malaga in consequence of the event.

Dreadful Death.—A week or two since, while the steamer Cygnet was on her passage from New Orleans to St Louis, a quarrel took place between the Captain and one of the hands. In the midst of the fracas, the Captain pushed the man into the engine, whilst it was in full operation, and the poor fellow was crushed into a thousand pieces. The Captain has been held to bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars.—Gazette.

Accident.—A man named Jacob Holmes, a rigger by trade, fell this morning from one of the yards of a schooner lying at India Wharf, into the dock. In falling, he struck against the side of the vessel and broke two of his ribs. He was taken up nearly lifeless, and conveyed to his residence.—Mercantile Journal.

WARD ONE AWAKE.

At a full and respectable meeting of the democrats of the first ward, held at the Eliot school house, Tuesday evening, Oct. 20th, 1836, Enoch H. Shewell, Esq., was unanimously chosen President, Messrs Wm. C. Perkins and Robert Bunting Vice Presidents, and Messrs Benjamin Dodge and Nathaniel T. Shepard, Secretaries.

The following preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:—

"Whereas, we are on the eve of our annual elections for State officers, and the more important election of Electors for President and Vice President of the United States—the well known enemies of our cause are in the field—and, although they have assumed various names and shapes they cannot hide the cloven hoof—it is our duty to resist their efforts to subvert the government, and to their candidates, the nominees of the Baltimore Convention and our nominations of State officers. And what will their opposition amount to in this State? Edward Everett is the bob to Daniel Webster's kite; he must be boosted into the gubernatorial chair over the back of Daniel Webster, the candidate for the Presidency, and he, Daniel, receive the electoral votes of Massachusetts in 'solitary grandeur.' Of the other States, whose elections have taken place, the harbinger of success has already reached us—the democracy of the Union is shaking itself of its slumbers and is already girded for action;—and shall we of the old Bay State, sleep on our post? We have always, since the Revolution been ready to meet our enemies, and to their cost, too. Of our candidates for President, we know their names, and we know their measures, and we know their whole lives have been identified with the cause of democracy, whether in eloquently urging the righteousness of our cause during the last war in the legislative assemblies of the Empire State, or in prostrating the enemy in the battle of the Thames. Then let the old democrats and the young democrats of the city arise from their lethargy—tell our country friends that, though we have been long dead in trespasses and sins, there is some life left yet, and the moving of the spirit is begun in the first Ward of the city. Therefore,

Resolved, That, in the language of Jefferson, cities are 'sore upon the body politic' and that as this city has been a bold exorcism we will begin to probe the sore, probe it to the quick, and ere long, with our sister city, Baltimore, come forth cleansed of all our impurities.

Resolved, That we will use all honorable means to promote the election of the democratic Electors of President and Vice President, and our democratic candidates for State officers. And that the democrats of the North End will awake from their slumbers go to the polls rally their friends and devote the day of election in assisting to give the old Bay State a place among her sister States in the great republican cause.

Resolved, That we highly approve of the nomination of Amos Walker for Congress, and that we will use all honorable means to elect him to the first District, and will use all honorable means to effect his election.

Resolved, That a committee of ten be appointed at this meeting to report to the Ward Committee 100 names as vote distributors for Ward one.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to call another meeting of the democrats of Ward one at such time and place as they think proper.

Resolved, That the doings of this meeting be signed by the officers, and published in the democratic papers of the city.

Resolved, That the doings of this meeting be signed by the officers, and published in the democratic papers of the city.
